Safety Precautions

- 1. Ensure that the weight of the phone or device placed on the stand does not exceed the recommended limit. Overloading the stand may cause instability and increase the risk of the device falling, potentially causing damage to both the stand and the device.
- 2. Always place the stand on a flat, stable surface. Using the stand on an uneven or unstable surface can lead to the risk of tipping over, which could cause your device to fall and get damaged.
- 3. When adjusting the angle or rotating the stand, do so gently. Applying too much force can damage the folding arm mechanism or cause the stand to become misaligned, which could affect its performance and stability.
- 4. Keep the stand away from moisture, as exposure to water or humidity can damage the stand and the phone, particularly the electronic components. Always use the stand in dry environments to ensure its longevity and safety.
- 5. Regularly inspect the stand for any signs of wear, cracks, or damage. If you notice any issues with the stand's arms, clamp, or base, stop using it and replace it to prevent accidents or further damage.
- 6. If using the MagSafe feature, ensure your device is MagSafe-compatible. Attempting to use non-MagSafe phones with the magnetic holder may result in an unstable hold and increase the risk of the phone slipping or falling.
- 7. To prevent accidents, keep the stand and any devices attached to it out of the reach of children. A child might accidentally knock the stand over, leading to potential injury or damage to the device.
